

AGCO Launches FarmerCore Service and Information Portal

Web-based tool streamlines farmers' tasks, improving operations

DULUTH, GA | October 29, 2024 | AGCO Corporation (NYSE: AGCO), a global leader in the design, manufacture and distribution of agricultural machinery and precision ag technology, today announced the launch of its Service and Information Portal, a web-based tool delivering on AGCO's FarmerCore Digital pillar. Farmers in North America will now have digital access to operator and maintenance manuals, warranty information, product support programs and dealer information. The portal will be available to farmers globally in the future.

The newly launched platform offers farmers comprehensive access to vital equipment information customized for their fleets. Additionally, the portal allows farmers to access the latest operator manuals at no cost.

“The FarmerCore Service and Information Portal provides farmers with a quick and easy way to access details about their machinery and equipment,” said Stefan Caspari, AGCO Senior Vice President of Customer Success and Business Effectiveness. “This is just the beginning of the 24/7 online access to support and sales that we are creating through FarmerCore to help farmers' operations run smoothly and minimize disruptive downtime.”
